

AFRICATAALKS

Department of African Studies and Anthropology
University of Birmingham

SPRING 2019	DATE
'Islands of integrity': Reductions in bribery in Uganda and South Africa and lessons for improving anti-corruption policy and practice Heather Marquette, University of Birmingham	Wed 16 January
Atlantic Slavery a crime against Natural, Humanity, Divine, and Civil laws: Angolan Prince Lourenço da Silva Mendonça's Court Case, Vatican 1684-1686 José Lingna Nafafé, University of Bristol	Wed 23 January
Anthropocene storytelling: Ecological writing and pedagogies of planetary change Kirk Sides, University of Bristol, and Tjawangwa Dema	Wed 30 January
Infrastructures of encounter: Local radio, sociability and place-(re)making in post-conflict Abidjan, Côte d'Ivoire Fabien Cante, University of Birmingham	Wed 6 February
Do you really need it? Educational mismatch and earnings in Ghana Christian Darko, University of Birmingham	Wed 13 February
Removing Africa from beneath the shadow of Terra Nullius: Law, decolonisation and the study of Africa Foluke Adebisi, University of Bristol	Wed 27 February
Rebel Orders: Violence and the (never) coming anarchy Kieran Mitton, Kings College London	Wed 6 March
Zvirikufaya as popular politics: Digital culture, mediated encounters and postcolonial publics Wendy Willems, London School of Economics	Wed 13 March
The politics of work in a post-conflict state: Youth, labour, and violence in Sierra Leone Luisa Enria, University of Bath	Wed 20 March
The Act of Living: Marginality and street life in an African success story (book launch) Marco di Nunzio, University of Birmingham	Wed 27 March

4:30-6:30pm, Danford Room, 2nd floor, Arts Building